Waters Fraction Manager Analytical

The Fraction Manager Analytical was designed to optimally isolate and collect narrow UPLC peaks with high recovery and purity. The collection valve has an internal volume of 1.6uL for a total volume of 13.6uL with the standard fraction needle. All interconnect tubings are factory calibrated, and have been designed for the low dispersion. The calibrated values are entered into the software to eliminate any delay time testing and remove subjective results. The patent pending needle tip is formed to focus the fraction stream and inhibit droplets from forming and remaining on the tip. To further reduce carryover a separate wash solvent line was added to enable the user to select an optimal rinse solvent for the application. Additionally the syringe enables the flush feature which will deposit the remaining sample from the needle tip into the collection vessel. For bio applications WFMA features an inert fluid path and thermally controlled compartment. The collection method enables the user to maximize their collection results with versatile and robust parameters. The fraction simulation tool allows the user to model and optimize their collection parameters by displaying the modeled results on a chromatogram. This is particularly useful when the user runs many injections of the same sample. Developed from the ACQUITY FTN the WFMA integrates seamlessly into the H-Class and Alliance systems with a flow rate up to 5ml/min with the optional high flow needle.

The following items are included as part of the WFMA system:
